Beard. Bye-bye

▶ As if leading the Bruins to a Stanley Cup victory and bringing another championship to Boston wasn't enough, goalie Tim Thomas took a razor to the face for charity. Thomas had his playoff beard shaved at Gillette's headquarters in South Boston yesterday. The playoff MVP was left with just a moustache. The company said it would donate $25,000 to local sports charities in return.

Segway tour company sues city to roll on

A Boston Segway tour company is suing the city and the Rose Kennedy Greenway Conservancy after the City Council last week passed a measure to regulate the motorized devices.

Orlando Gliders, Inc., which operates Boston Gliders, filed the suit in federal court Friday.

In the complaint the company claimed the regulations would cause a loss of jobs to a growing business and would create a public safety hazard for its riders.

A public safety hazard was the reason behind the ordinance when it was proposed.

The regulations, in part, would limit the speed and number of riders in one group and would prohibit the devices from riding anywhere but public streets.

Anyone caught in violation would be subject to a $50 fine for the first offense and $100 for each subsequent offense. Tour operators would be fined $500.

Boston Gliders sought an injunction to block the regulations, but that was put on hold because the mayor has yet to sign off on the measure, enacting it.

Have you seen Catherine Greig?

- FBI starts new focus on reputed mobster Whitey Bulger's girlfriend
- Commercials to air during daytime TV in 10 states beginning today

PHOTOCREDITXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXX

▶ Anticipating that the commercials will generate many new tips, FBI officials said their command post in Boston will be staffed 24/7 by agents and analysts to evaluate the leads.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation is looking to elderly women to help them locate one of the country's most wanted criminals.

The agency announced yesterday that new pleas for information in its search for 81-year-old James "Whitey" Bulger will focus on his longtime girlfriend Catherine Greig.

A 30-second public service announcement focuses on Greig and her characteristics rather than Bulger's features.

In its effort to generate tips, the agency bought 350 time slots that will play during daytime television shows that would appeal to Greig's age group. Those shows include the Rachael Ray" show, "Dr. Oz," "The View" and "Ellen."

The targeted advertising, which also includes a digital billboard in Times Square, costs $50,000, agents said.

It will air in 14 cities from Boston to San Francisco, but the fact that the ads are only airing in the United States shouldn't indicate that agents have information that Greig is in the country, authorities said.

The ads should not also indicate that agents believe Bulger is dead. Agents said they have no credible information on his death and are working under the impression that he is still alive.

"The FBI is targeting that audience with the belief that a friend, a coworker, neighbor, hair stylist, manicurist, doctor or dentist might recognize Greig," the FBI said in a statement.

The last confirmed Bulger sighting was in London in 2002. He was indicted for 19 murders and fled in 1995.

"The bottom line is Bulger has to be caught. The sooner the better," said Assistant U.S. Attorney James Herbert. "This has gone on long enough."

Commuter AC units prepped for hot summer ◗ MBCR wants to keep a malfunction-free season ◗ Fixes to faulty systems started in February

Today marks the first official day of what could be a blistering summer, and the Massachusetts Bay Commuter Rail wasted no time preparing for it.

Since February, crews have been slaving over air-conditioning units and accommodating cars with working gear according to Bernard McCall, MBCR chief mechanical officer.

"We recognized the service issues early on and launched an aggressive preseason inspection," said McCall.

Spokesman Scott Farmelant said the MBCR in 2006 ran into trouble when more than 10 percent of their commuter cars were "hot in service," leaving customers sweltering.

To date, only 1 percent have had the same issue, Farmelant said, and MBCR is trying to maintain a perfect record this summer.

"For the past 72 hours we have been running at 100 percent," said McCall. "We didn't want to regress to a 2006 level."

Over the winter months, a crew of five mechanics went to work on weather-battered units to get them up to par for summer rides.

Farmelant said Saturday's Bruins parade was a test of the system.

At a time when the Commuter Rail hit its peak, all-time, single-day ridership record of 120,000, there wasn't one complaint about the AC lodged, Farmelant said.

McCall said achieving "a perfect record" will be a chore, but they have mechanics in place to handle it.

The T contracts MBCR to maintain commuter trains and equipment.

They are not responsible for the T's subway cars.

In a photograph that Ryan Dunn shared with his Twitter followers around midnight yesterday, the "Jackass" co-star sits with two friends at Barnaby's of America bar in his hometown of West Chester. Each holds a plastic cup. Dunn looks into his drink while the others take sips.

In another photograph that would make the Internet rounds yesterday afternoon, a tow truck hauls a charred, mangled piece of Dunn's 2007 Porsche 911 GT3 from a wooded area off of Route 322 near Pottstown Pike in West Goshen, Chester County. At 2:38 a.m., the vehicle jumped a guardrail at a fork in the road, killing Dunn and a passenger whose identity was being withheld pending positive identification.

▶ Dunn

"Upon arrival, police located one vehicle off the road and in the woods that was fully engulfed in flames," the police report stated. "Preliminary investigation revealed that speed may have been a contributing factor to the accident."

The news release didn't refer to alcohol involvement. Dunn was reportedly identified by his tattoos. Splintered trees, skid marks and fire residue marked the scene later in the day.

Dunn, who appeared in MTV's "Jackass" series and three namesake movies, was on NBC's "Minute to Win It" show earlier this month. He turned 34 on June 9, and the first episode of G4's "Proving Ground" show, which he hosted, debuted five days later.

3 "Butt X-ray" from the original "Jackass" movie: Dunn inserted a small toy car into his rectum and needed medical attention. A doctor took an X-ray which clearly showed the vehicle.

2 "Duck Hunting" from the last movie, "Jackass 3D": Johnny Knoxville and Co. unload clips of paint balls onto Dunn as he's hurled through the air 100 feet into a lake.

1 "Golf Cart Derby" from "Jackass 3D": A two-minute abridged version of the long, dangerous skit ends with a violent crash where a cart, driven by Dunn, nearly crushes Knoxville to death.

High court tosses ladies' suit against Wal-Mart

Big win for retailer Women said they got less money, opportunities

GETTY IMAGES

The ruling could impact future similar cases.

The Supreme Court threw out yesterday a massive class-action sex-discrimination lawsuit against Wal-Mart Stores Inc., the biggest ever such case, in a major victory for the world's largest retailer and for big business in general.

The justices unanimously ruled that more than 1 million female employees nationwide could not proceed together in the lawsuit seeking billions of dollars and accusing Wal-Mart of paying women less and giving them fewer promotions.

The Supreme Court agreed with Wal-Mart, the largest private U.S. employer, that the class-action certification violated federal rules for such lawsuits.

It accepted Wal-Mart's argument that the female employees in different jobs at 3,400 different stores nationwide and with different supervisors do not have enough in common to be lumped together in a single class-action lawsuit.

The ruling was cheered by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce business group as the most important class action case in more than a decade but denounced by women's groups.

It represented a major victory for Wal-Mart, which also has faced legal battles including an attempt to unionize and to block the giant retailer from opening stores in New York and other places.

"We are pleased with today's ruling and believe the court made the right decision. Wal-Mart has had strong policies against discrimination for many years," the Bentonville, Ark.-based company said in a statement. REUTERS

THE WORD

Metro's Dorothy Robinson shares her take on the world of gossip @dorothyatmetro dorothy.robinson@metro.us

Metro plays: Guess the villain!

Is there an award's show that is less popular than the poor Daytime Emmy Awards? At least the People's Choice Awards gets famous people to actually show up. Alas, Sunday's show was just as poorly attended with Ellen DeGeneres, Regis Philbin and Dr. Phil McGraw as no-shows. Even Oprah Winfrey, who became a billionaire thanks to daytime TV, and who was who honored with the first-ever "Chairman's Crystal Pillar Award," accepted via a taped piece, not even satellite. Burn! Luckily, the soap stars still showed up in all their razzle and dazzle. Sadly, as I don't have the pleasure of watching the daily soaps, I'm not familiar with any of these stars but it was fun to guess if they play a villain or not based on their outfits alone. Care to take a shot?

Same old story for Winehouse

Amy Winehouse's planned comeback tour ended abruptly on the first night after the troubled singer slouched through a Belgrade concert, dropping her microphone at times and letting a backup singer finish songs for her, according to the BBC. The next two stops on the tour, in Istanbul and Athens, have been scrapped because "she cannot perform to the best of her ability" and feels "this is the right thing to do," her rep says. Doctors back in the U.K., where Winehouse recently paid a quick visit to rehab, are warning the singer that she has to finally clean up her act: "It's the last-chance saloon for Amy," a source says, according to Popeater. "Doctors have come down hard on her because of the severity of her situation. It's a harsh reality, but she had to hear it."

Jennifer Lopez is speaking out about the ongoing legal battle with ex-husband Ojani Noa over home videos from their marriage that he wants to release, a move Lopez has been fighting to block. "My first husband has tapes of us from our life. It's horrible," Lopez tells Culture magazine. "It's horrible someone would try to sell personal things, but there's nothing on it. There's no sex tape."

Lady Gaga back with boy toy

Just a month after announcing they'd broken up, Lady Gaga is reportedly back with on-again, off-again boyfriend Luc Carl, according to Us Weekly. "They had a little fight. I think the breakup lasted a week or two," a source says. "They are totally back together now." Gaga herself admits she may have stretched the truth in announcing her relationship's demise. "I sometimes skirt questions about it — and maybe not honestly," she tells the magazine.

This heart is on fire

Author Harold Holzer is one of the country's leading authorities on the political culture of the Civil War In 'Hearts Touched By Fire,' he compiles essays about the era, from Ulysses S. Grant to obscure soldiers ▶ Harold Holzer edited "Hearts Touched by Fire," which offers accounts of the Civil War's great battles.

DON POLLARD PHOTOGRAPH

For Civil War historians, the collection of firsthand accounts known as "Battles and Leaders of the Civil War" is "like having a dictionary on their desk," according to Harold Holzer. "It's one of these essential things that you have to consult anytime you're writing about any battle or incident of the war."

On the 150th anniversary of the war's outbreak, Holzer has edited "Hearts Touched By Fire," a weighty new tome compiling roughly a quarter of those original essays, granting regular readers access to this treasure trove. Compiled by the editors of The Century magazine beginning in 1883, the series gathered recollections by everyone from obscure soldiers to Ulysses S. Grant.

"This was the way the generals and the admirals wanted us to remember the war, as a battle of gentlemen, a battle of strategies."
HAROLD HOLZER

"This was the first draft of Civil War memory," Holzer says. "This was the way the generals and the admirals wanted us to remember the war, as a battle of gentlemen, a battle of strategies. It's not a completely authentic view of history, but it's an influential view of history."

For modern readers, Holzer explains, these stories are as important to understanding how we've come to think of the war as they are to describing the battles themselves. "At this point, the Civil War is not just a series of battles or a panoply of leaders, it's a big part of American consciousness. I think you can find out how we shaped that consciousness most reliably and most dramatically in this collection."

Don't fear the Pusha

If you know Pusha T only from his work on Kanye West's latest album, there's a lot to learn Clipse rapper on why he likes to keep his freestyle free Kanye an 'unselfish' collaborator

Terrence Thornton is something like a walking paradox. Known better as Pusha T, he's a heralded hip-hop lyricist who you can catch singing the praises of the pariah of rap purists, Soulja Boy. He's a platinum hitmaker who's committed to feeding the streets and the Internet new freestyles. And in the strangest turn of events, the veteran Grammy nominated MC is now getting a newcomer's acclaim after his work on Kanye West's latest album, "My Beautiful Dark Twisted Fantasy." Having gained respect for the literate drug game-inspired anthems of The Clipse, his group with brother Malice, Pusha is set for the solo spotlight.

While on the verge of releasing one of the more anticipated solo debuts in hip-hop (on West's G.O.O.D. Music imprint), he decided to appease his fans with the commercial release of his heralded mixtape "Fear Of God" on Decon Records as an EP.

Even with numerous albums, Pusha T has made it a point to create mixtapes, a process which he calls "the foundation of hip-hop." He says that as an artist, that's where the talk begins.

"The mixtape is the core," he says. "There's a certain level of artistry that we put into them. For me, it's everything. Mixtapes for me were about competition. For me, there was nothing like hearing Jay-Z on a DJ Clue tape over 'The Symphony.'"

So much of mixtapes depends on collaboration. How did Pusha T find the experience of collaborating with Kanye West?

"People are so wrong that it's hilarious. He's so unselfish," says Pusha. "He'd just play records and let me pick whatever I wanted to be on. Like, 'This could be the biggest record of the year and you're just letting me do what I want?' People just don't get him. If standing up for what you believe in and demanding what you want is an egomaniac then a lot of people are guilty of that."

'Combat Hospital'

DRAMA. The newest medical drama to join the primetime party takes place in the war zone of Southern Afghanistan. "Combat Hospital" is modeled after the NATO Role 3 Hospital with a set that is a "meticulous re-creation of a portion of the hospital compound," according to ABC. Now, as for the cast? We're assuming they took some liberties there. Series premiere, 10 p.m., ABC

Perfect hair for your big day

Getting your hair to look its best on your wedding day is crucial. You want a style that's chic and yet sturdy enough to withstand, say, an unexpected gust of wind or your first dance. Yes, it's possible. Kate Middleton's hair guru, Richard Ward, explains.

ROMINA MCGUINNESS

Big rollers will help you get ready for the big day.

GETTY IMAGES/THINKSTOCK IMAGES

Try a demi chignon
"The up-down demi chignon really is the best of both worlds," Ward says. "Wear it all the way down and your hair will be all over your face. But wear it all the way up and you look too strict. [The demi chignon] is a timeless look that you can pull off at the ceremony and the party."

Keep curls lovely and loose
"No matter how well curls have been done they will eventually drop. For long lasting, lovely, loose curls, use big rollers set into wet hair. This will last as your hair dries into the shape," he explains. "The worst thing to do is use tight, heavy tongs or heating rollers, as neither will last."

Not everyone has a tiara
An alternate hair accoutrement Ward loves are flowers. "They're the ultimate accessory," he assures. "Make a halo using lily of the valley buds. If you want to jazz this up at night just swap the flowers for some diamante studs, as seen on Pippa [Middleton]."

Pick a good hair spray

"On the day, allow for at least 90 minutes to get your hair done," he says. "An easy trap to fall into is to add on loads of hairspray to make sure that your hair stays in place, but what you should be doing is lightly applying a fine spray. Assign a friend to help you freshen your hair at night, whether it's blow drying or straightening."

Beauty pick

Shedding a tear as you say your vows is finally possible with Kanebo's 38°C mascara. It can only be removed with hot water, making it perfect to help get through the day's roller coaster of emotions. $25, www.neimanmarcus.com

Aguilera's chunky salary

RE: 'WHY DOES CHRISTINA GET PAID MORE?'
I can't believe Christina Aguilera gets paid so much. Like you mentioned, the other artists are just as, if not more, talented because they produce their own music as well as sing and play an instrument. Maybe the extra money is to pay for her recent slew of court fees. Either that or they charge her for food because the girl has put on some weight! They should pay for some Jenny Craig or a few psych evals.
MATTHEW JORDAN, VIA E-MAIL

Get to the root of the problem

By having resigned, Anthony Wiener will perhaps find redemption with the public. But for now, he must go home to mend the fences with his family. He should also seek counseling because there is an underlying issue that is darker and more complicated than the public can imagine.
ANTHONY P. JOHNSON, VIA E-MAIL

No more Van Wilder

I would like to say thanks to Heidi Patalano for being truthful about how bad the film "Green Lantern" is. Keep telling like it is and helping save the consumers money.

Moved over gay rights

An open letter to New York City's Mayor Bloomberg: Thank you for your support of same-sex marriages. Since I was a boy, something always pulled at me to one day move to New York. I could never really explain the reason I needed to leave my home state, Louisiana. I made it to NYC just shy of my 25th birthday in 1990. I now see clearly what was calling me.
VINCENT M. CREAR-FLEMING, VIA E-MAIL

Actually, be an actuary

RE: 'BREAKING INTO THE INSURANCE INDUSTRY'
I found it interesting that neither Bruce Walsh nor Kevin Lynch mentioned jobs in the actuarial field. Actuarial jobs are one of the mainstays of the insurance industry and have been consistently listed among top U.S. jobs. Perhaps they don't believe the average reader has the mathematical prowess to pursue this career, or they believe a median salary of $84,810 (source: BLS) isn't something students are interested in.

Horoscope

♋ Cancer June 21-July 22.
If you're too easily influenced, spending time with people who don't know how to laugh at themselves could have depressing effect on your attitude as well.
♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22.
Tend to critical matters or jobs that need doing as early as possible before moving onto anything else. The later it gets, the fewer chances you'll have of contacting necessary parties.
♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22.
A discussion might be in order concerning something you either loaned or borrowed from a friend. Resolve the situation amicably.
♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23.
If you act contrary from what others have learned to expect from you, misunderstandings could easily occur. In order to stay in character, be extra mindful of your behavior.
♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22.
More than one friend will be disappointed if you appear hopeful of getting more than you're willing to give. Examine your motives.
♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21.
Group contributions could create complications if certain people think they don't need to make the same effort as the others.
♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19.
When discussing a subject of great importance, don't allow your attention to wander. A misunderstanding could easily manifest.
♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19.
If you can choose, try to engage in work that requires muscle power rather than mental concentration. This isn't likely to be one of your better days for sharp thinking.
♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20.
Not everything will run as smoothly as you envision, but unless it's vital, don't make a big deal out of it. You could start blaming others who have tried to do their best.
♈ Aries March 21-April 19.
The intentions of both friends and family are likely to be noble, but kin won't always be able to do what they promised — and you shouldn't expect it. It might be the time to look to your own house for aid.
♉ Taurus April 20-May 20.
Those you recruit to help you might make more work. If you want things done properly, sometimes it's better to do the job yourself.
♊ Gemini May 21-June 20.
Unless you treat others the way you want to be treated, trying to profit at their expense would lead to losses instead of gains.

wales

Wales sports a sunny disposition

Celtic Manor's Ryder Cup put Welsh golf (and rainy stereotypes) in the spotlight Great courses, superb weather helped dispel preconceptions

With the soggy 2010 Ryder Cup burned into the memory banks, it seemed wise to stock up on rain gear and pack for a week of golf as if it would be played in the shower. But, nursing a sunburn on the way home, one of my misconceptions about the southwestern nation of the UK had been put to rest: It's not always rainy in Wales.

The truth is that during the ill-fated weather week when Celtic Manor Resort was on center stage, more rain fell in one hour than the monthly average. Yes, it can be rainy, but no, it's not a guarantee.

Then there's the golf. Whereas Scotland and Ireland may come first to mind, overlook Wales at your own peril. With Celtic Manor's three superb 18-hole championship courses — highlighted by the Twenty Ten Course, the first ever built specifically to host a Ryder Cup — the five-star resort has geography on its side. Just two hours from London Heathrow, Celtic Manor is a prime home base for exploring Wales.

Great golf of many styles

Accessible by car from Celtic Manor is Royal Porthcawl, one of the finest links-style golf courses in the world. Established in its current location a century ago, the private club is now offering visitors a taste of the classic, rustic and authentic links golf experience. The golf itself is unlike anything found in the U.S., with the holes routed through the sandy soil that lies next to the ocean. Royal Porthcawl is ranked among the 100 greatest courses in the world and tests a player's creativity thanks to strong winds and fast, firm conditions.

On the opposite end of the design spectrum, but similarly spectacular, is Celtic Manor's Twenty Ten Course. Built in the valley of the resort's sprawling, hillside property, the Ryder Cup venue is modern, memorable and meticulously manicured. Because it was constructed for the USA vs. Europe competition, Twenty Ten's full of risk-reward holes that leave a lasting impression.

Twenty Ten is the gem, but Celtic Manor's other two courses — Roman Road and Montgomery — are demanding tracks that take advantage of the property's severe elevation changes.

Nightlife

Cardiff is the spot to explore if looking for a night out. The first option is Cardiff Bay, an entertainment zone with several blocks of restaurants and bars, as well as the impressive Wales Millennium Centre. For a more rugged evening "on the drink," the bars in Cardiff City are the proper choice.

On the menu

- The Welsh don't mess around at breakfast, as a typical start to the day includes eggs, bacon, sausage, potatoes, tomatoes, baked beans and a truly local item called black pudding. This patty of pork fat and pig's blood tastes like a dry, peppery sausage — a real treat if you look past the ingredients.
- One tip at the pub: Give Brains beer a try. The Welsh brewery offers several styles, such as Smooth and Dark.

THE RECORD SETTERS

Thomas, McIlroy set the sports world on fire Both set records, opened eyes with their unbelievable performances on the biggest stages But which had the better run of success?

They were performances for the ages; runs of near perfection that made them the toasts of their sports — and, in one case, Boston.

Tim Thomas' Stanley Cup playoffs and Rory McIlroy's U.S. Open were once-in-a-lifetime showings that just happened to wrap up within a week of each other.

The Hub's ageless goalie put the Bruins on his back and made himself a legend on the ice. Northern Ireland's boy wonder turned the golf world on its ear.

Which was more impressive? Decide for yourself. METRO

▶ The beard's a goner, but the Cup's still ours.

Tim Thomas

What he did:
Led the B's to the Stanley Cup with the greatest postseason performance ever by a goalie. Only three others have recorded a shutout in Game 7 of the Stanley Cup finals, and only Patrick Roy matched his two Game 7 blankings in one postseason.

The hardware:
Stanley Cup, Conn Smythe Trophy (playoff MVP), Vezina Trophy finalist

The records:
Highest regular-season save percentage (.938); most total saves in a single postseason (798); most saves in a single Stanley Cup finals (238)

GETTY IMAGES

▶ McIlroy tweeted a picture of himself drinking from this trophy early yesterday morning.

Rory McIlroy

What he did:
Dominated the field — and Congressional County Club — to win the U.S. Open by an eye-popping eight strokes. He's the third player to finish every round of the 111-year-old tournament shooting in the 60s.

The hardware:
The tournament's famed silver cup

The records:
Lowest total U.S. Open score (268); lowest U.S. Open score to par (16-under); youngest winner since 1923 (Bobby Jones); lowest 36-hole score (131); lowest 54-hole score (199)

Champs know how to party

Win a Stanley Cup, and you get license to do pretty much whatever you want.

For the Bruins, that includes running up a six-figure bar tab.

The team celebrated its championship at Foxwoods' Shrine nightclub after Saturday's duck boat parade. The damage, according to a photo of a receipt posted online by Barstool Sports: $156,679.74.

Most of that — an even $100,000 — was from a single 30-liter bottle of Ace of Spaces "Midas" champagne, hand-delivered by the club's owners. There are — well, were — just six of the bottles in existence.

Other highlights from the incredible bill: $268 for bottled water, $680 for 136 Bud Lights, a $300 bottle of Barardi, $4,000 for 20 bottles of Moet, 10 $12 Grey Gooses ... and one Heineken Light. METRO

- It wasn't easy, but Rafael Nadal advanced to the second round of Wimbledon yesterday. The top-seeded man fell behind Michael Russell before storming to a 6-4, 6-2, 6-2 triumph. Nadal has never lost in the first round at a Grand Slam tournament.

Britain's hope

- No player feels more pressure at Wimbledon than Andy Murray — the choice of Britain's long-suffering tennis fans. He came through yesterday, overcoming a first-set loss to hold off Daniel Gimeno-Traver, 4-6, 6-3, 6-0, 6-0, under the retractable roof at Centre Court.

Fashionplate

- Venus Williams served her way past Akgul Amanmuradova in the first round yesterday, 6-3, 6-1. Her outfit, unfortunately, didn't do as well. A baggy, sleeveless, one-piece ... thing ... from Williams' own company, eleVen, was roundly panned. METRO

Cronin leaving Huskies

Northeastern hockey coach Greg Cronin is leaving the Huskies for an assistant coaching gig with the Maple Leafs, the school announced yesterday.

Cronin, who took over for former NU coach Bruce Crowder in 2005, served a six-game suspension this year for recruiting violations.

Automatic 'W': Beckett starts

Red Sox's investment in RHP paying off ◐ He's the AL's best starter this year ◐ Coming off a one-hitter

For the first time in a while, the Red Sox are again getting what they paid for in Josh Beckett.

The big right-hander suffered through a sub-par 2010 after signing a $68 million contract extension in April, posting a 5.78 ERA in just 127 2/3 innings.

But he's been worth every penny this year.

Beckett, who's scheduled to start tonight against the Padres at Fenway Park, lowered his ERA to an AL-best 1.86 in his last start — a stunning one-hit, no-walk shutout at Tampa Bay.

▶ Beckett

It was Beckett's first complete game since 2009. Only a Reid Brignac single kept it from being a perfect game.

"I felt good," Beckett said at the time. "They were hitting balls at guys, and that's nice. When you miss your spot and they still hit it at somebody, it's just one of those nights."

He's had a lot of "those nights" lately.

The East-leading Sox (43-28) have won seven of Beckett's last eight outings — all statistical quality starts — dating back to May 9 against Minnesota. He's failed to surrender a run in four of his last nine.

Perhaps most importantly, he's beaten the Yankees three times, holding them scoreless twice.

MLB. Pujols hurt

▶ The Cardinals star was clearly in pain Sunday.

Pujols out for a month

Cardinals superstar Albert Pujols will miss four to six weeks with a non-displaced fracture of his left radius, the team announced yesterday. The slugger, who is in the last year of his contract with St. Louis, was hurt Sunday when he collided with Wilson Betemit while covering first base. METRO
